Erin Shine is not only a licensed historian and tarot card reader for the city of Salem, but she is also a senior studying at Salem University towards a bachelor's degree in music and in theatre with a minor in dance. Supporting herself through school as a first-generation student, she was most recently able to combine all her interests as she was cast as Little Red Riding Hood in Salem State's upcoming production of Into The Woods. While Shine's focus is vocal performance, she also plays the French Horn and has done so not only in the university band but in both the theatre department in the main stage show The Long Christmas Ride Home. Most of her musical performances at Salem State have been through Chamber Singers of which she was a member and soloist. One of the most memorable performances being the Woman's Choral staging of the opera Hansel & Gretel in which she played the Dew Fairy.

Always driven to explore, Shine was in over eight clubs and organizations at her high school Ayer Shirley Regional, she was president of three of them. Her ambition led her not only to create and lead her own Glee club at the school but also to audition outside of the institution. The Handel and Haydn Society accepted her into their female ensemble as well as their chamber group. This later allowed Shine to audition to be a soloist in their New England Conservatory sponsoring her lessons from an NEC professor and an opportunity to perform in their soloist hall. This translated to building her own degree track at Salem State. While the road to college was difficult Shine believes Salem is not only a place where she can grow her career and musical education but foster her spiritual and financial needs.

Salem State University has given Shine several opportunities to perform but also the ability to audition outside of school. Currently Shine is SAG cardholder, a member of the Screen Actors Guild, for her work as a voice over actor which featured her singing ability, as well as being an extra in future films. She continues to collaborate with other aspiring artists at Salem State university, working with a fellow music major to record and enter into a prestigious musical theatre intensive in New York City, Actor Therapy with composer and actor Ryan-Scot Oliver and Tony winning actress Lindsay Mendez.

Erin anticipates graduating in 2022 and continuing her journey to New York City taking classes with Actor Therapy. Cultivating the skills she learned at Salem State, she maintained her connections with her fellow musicians in the program and plans on living in a residence solely meant for working female artists in the city. As she continues her training she will look forward to the release of other collaborations with local artists and Salem State alumni.

Erin Shine is a senior pursuing her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Vocal Performance with a double major, a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Theatre, with a minor in Dance. With no higher music programs offered at their High school, Erin would drive into Boston every weekend to sing with the Handel and Haydn Society's Women and Chamber ensemble. Leading her to SSU, Erin has sung in student groups in the Music and Theatre departments, including Chamber Choir, Alto Voce chorus, and University ensemble. During her early years at SSU, Shine continued their passion for the French Horn by playing in the University Band. She was always under the guidance and mentorship of Jean Danton, their applied lessons teacher. Shine has solo credits, include Little Red Riding Hood (Into The Woods), Musician/puppeteer (Long Christmas Ride Home), Angle/soloist (Jesus Christ Superstar), Cinderella (Cinderella), Wednesday (Addams Family), and Ginette (Almost, Maine). Operas include Salome (Salome), and Dew Fairy (Hansel and Gretel), and Carmen (Carmen).
